Requirements: Relevant experience in working with clients with additional needs, especially relating to the key goals of the role, as outlined.

Available for a variety of shifts (day and sleeping night) throughout the week including some weekend shifts. Overtime will be available and flexibility is essential, as care is required to provide cover as and when required by the client, sometimes at short notice.

Responsible, trustworthy and very reliable, attending all agreed shifts, unless for very good reason.

Genuine caring, sensitive and patient profile with ability to learn and follow training and assessment in regard to competence and confidence.

Confident, resilient, robust, creative and independent, in assisting in researching and planning activities for the client to take part in. Desire to take part in these activities with the client.

Good communicator, liaising with the client, her family, therapists and other professionals involved.

Ability to work using IT for email and support worker documentation and to keep clear update records.

Holder of a full driving licence and confident driver.

Key Goals:

Promote the client's well-being and happiness at all times.

Consistently reinforce safe and appropriate behaviour, and positive choices that the client demonstrates, in line with her therapist's advice and support programme.

Allow the client a freedom of choice and the opportunity to further develop her independence skills.

Supervise the client with meals during family meal times, snacks and drinks

Enable the client to access the local community and engage in appropriate activities in line with the overall support programme and risk assessment.

Maintain a positive yet realistic approach to the client, offering support and encouragement when needed.

Provide assistance with all of the client's care requirements as detailed below (Aids to Daily Living).

Administer medication as prescribed and to maintain associated medication records.

Provide assistance with all aspects of the client's on-going rehabilitation in line with the client's support programme under the supervision of treating therapists and professionals and parents.

Engage with the client's brothers to a reasonable degree to create a feeling of inclusion within the family home, and to enable the family to socialise together in a meaningful way.

Maintain a safe environment for the client in the home and in all community based activities (subject to training and risk assessment).

Be responsible for domestic chores linked with the client's overall care. These will include laundry, ironing and cleaning, and any additional tasks in the interests of providing a safe, clean and efficient environment for the client.

Transport the client by driving her car, or any other vehicle deemed suitable (subject to appropriate assessment and insurance).

Use initiative when unforeseen events occur and communicate with all relevant parties, including family and professional involved.

When unsure of appropriate action to take, to contact the client's parents and/or the Case Manager for advice.

Maintain good communication with the Case Manager and other professionals to ensure a consistent approach by all.

Attend Support Care Worker meetings, training sessions and supervision sessions, as requested.

Take responsibility for completion of administrative tasks and documentation in line with CHC requirements

Complete a daily update report following each shift regarding the client's welfare.

Liaise with the Case Manager about general progress and regarding all incidents that are either unusual or which give raise for concern.

Respect the privacy of the client and her family. All matters relating to the client's situation and family are to be treated as confidential and are not to be disclosed to a third party.

Maintain professional boundaries and respect the family's need for personal time.

Read and keep updated with all CCMS policies and procedures.

Aids to Daily Living:

- i) Responsible for all of the client's personal care whilst on shift, in line with the care plan, including but not limited to, bathing, oral care, dressing, toileting and feeding procedures.
- ii) Cleaning and tidying of the client's bedroom, bathroom including the staff facilities.
- iii) Washing and ironing of the client's clothing. The client should always be well presented and cleanly dressed.
- iv) Reporting of any breakages as soon as possible.
- v) Reporting of any hazards or health and safety concerns as soon as possible.
- vi) Checking that all equipment is in safe working order as per risk assessment requirements.

Petty Cash: Be responsible for any "petty cash" which may be made available to you and keep a record of expenditure with receipts for the case manager.

Pay Monthly: A timesheet will be forwarded to you for completion regarding details required. Hours will be collected, in order to be sent to payroll, before the 18th of the month. You will be paid by cheque/BACS for the 1st of each month or as soon as can be arranged thereafter.

Contract: There will be a three-month probationary period with a formal appraisal three months thereafter.

Initially a letter of appointment will be given, which will contain your holiday entitlement, sickness arrangements, hourly rate, etc.

Meetings: All support workers must attend meetings with the case manager and therapists, as relevant, and these meetings will be held not more frequently than monthly. However, it may be necessary to call a meeting earlier when you will be expected to make all reasonable arrangements to attend. You will receive payment for attending meetings or trainings sessions if not on duty at the time.

A range of goals may be set at each meeting, and these are to be carefully maintained by the support care workers and written records to be kept. It is important to maintain a realistic outlook on the client's abilities.

This is by no means an exhaustive list and there are other areas, which will become apparent as time goes by and which will be subject to change to meet the needs of the client.

Please acknowledge that you have received the Support Care Worker Job Description outlining the responsibilities of a Support Care Worker which will be discussed in more detail as part of your training.
